You have charmed us with your flashing smile, you have made us laugh with your never ending cascade of humor, and you have mystified us with your non-sequiturs. You have been our teacher, our coach, and most importantly our friend.

We won't soon forget your caring guidance. We hope that you in turn will remember us. To that end we dedicate this book to you, Mr. Roswell.

What can we say to a man who has so shaped our lives? You have taken pride in our triumphs, and through encouragement, eased the pain of our failures. All we can say is thank you, Dr. Howard; we won't forget.

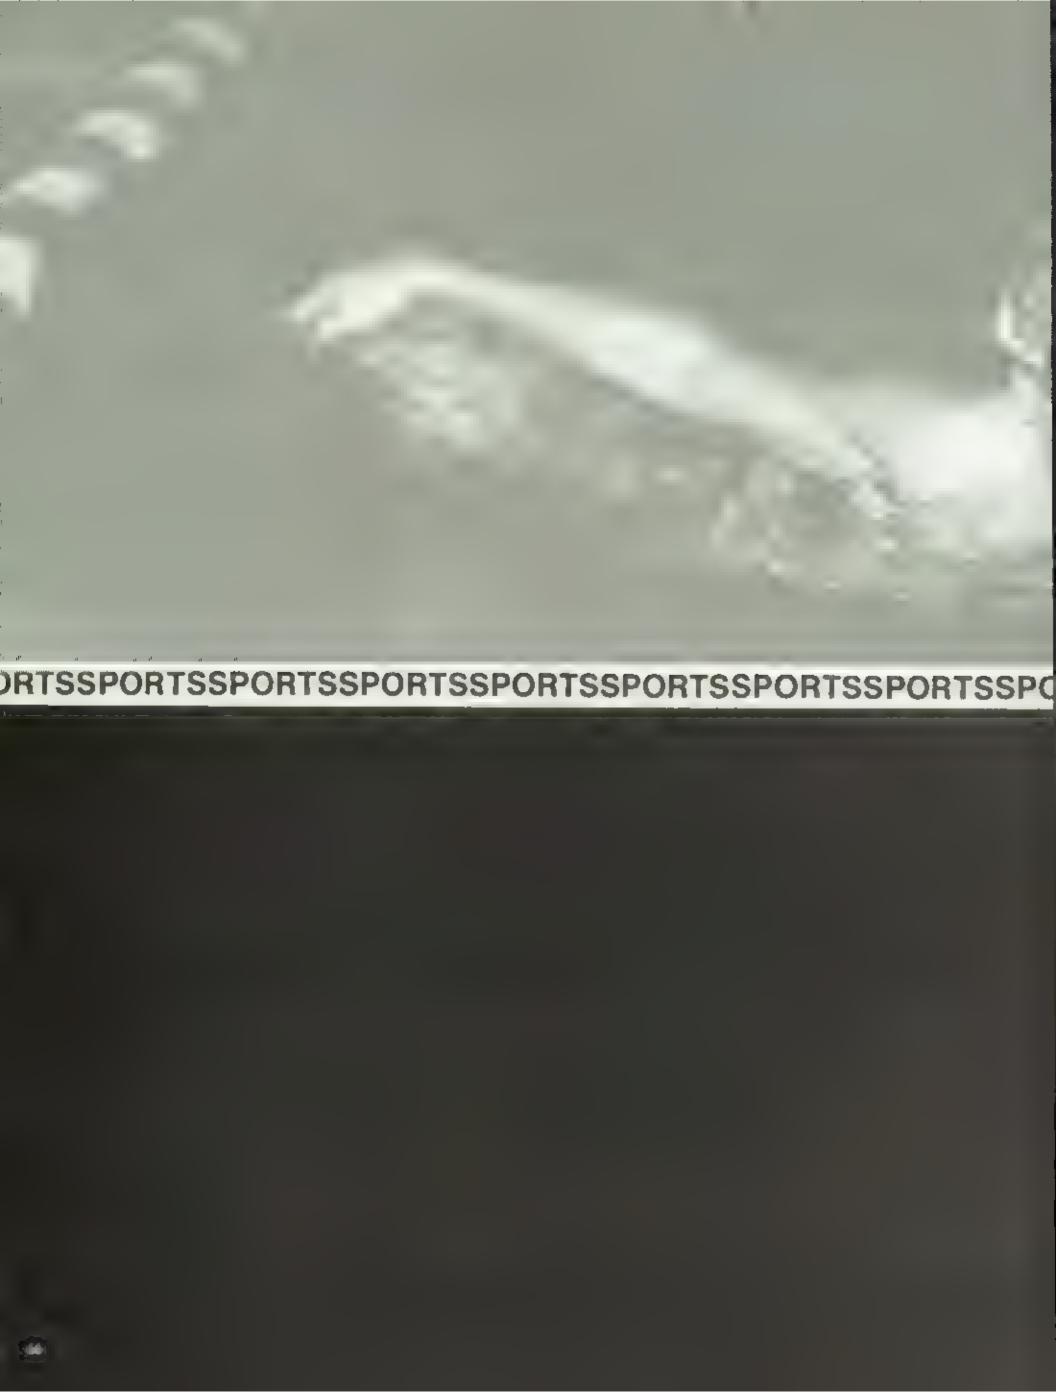

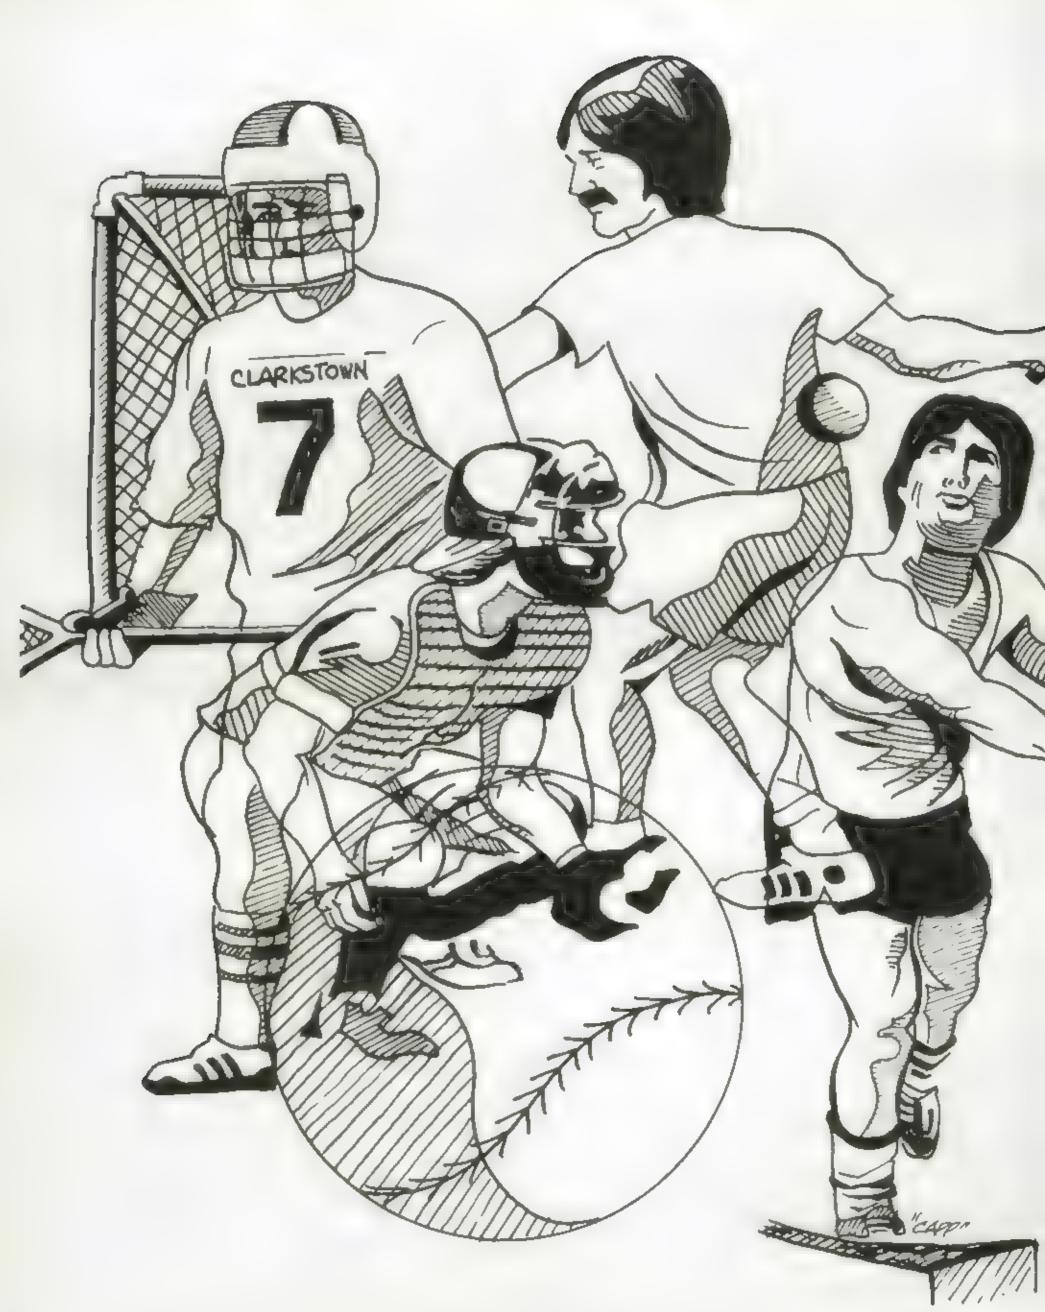

Thank you, Mr. Nash and Miss Egan, for your patience over the past four years. Class advisor is often a thankless position but we thank you now. In the future, when we remember the people at South who shaped us, helped and encouraged us, we will say your names with fondness

The Clarkstown South Boys' Varsity Swimming team recorded its most successful season this year, placing second only to Tappan Zee. Persistent hard training accounted for the superior physical condition of the swimmers while the inspiring efforts of first year coach John Kohler gave the team a psychological advantage. Together these factors produced a team that accumulated the most victories in South swimming history

All-County selections Mike Walsh, John and Tom Allen and John Mellhargy led the team by consistently winning Seniors Kevin Horan and Jeff Baer also contributed a considerable number of points to the Viking cause.

Makarova, Barvshnikov, Nurevev: the defections of these Russian ballet stars were highlights of the cultural world of the seventies. The New York City Ballet directed by another brilliant Russian, George Balanchine, continued to delight New Yorkers throughout the decade. The deaths of two titans, Picasso and Calder, marked the end of an era in art. Conceptual art, environmental art and kinetic art marked the beginning of the decade, while a reaction in the form of a return to realism set in by mid-decade

The genius of Bob Fosse shaped theatrical choreography in a decade brightened by his Chicago, Dancin', Pippin as well as The Wiz, Equus, A Chorus Line and Grease. In all, the arts of the seventies were marked by a surge of public interest huge crowds turned out for Tut, packed houses cheered the Met and the New York Philharmonic: art lovers waited on long lines to see the Cezannes at the Museum of Modern Art

LIBERATED WOMEN ARE MORE FUN

In the seventies, women made great strides toward achieving equality with men. Job opportunities in areas previously open only to men are now available to women as well. Role reversals, where women earn a living and their husbands take care of the house and children, are becoming less unusual in American family life.

Women have learned how to change tires and how to play soccer and other sports previously considered "unladylike." Men have taken up cooking and were told that it's not unmanly to cry.

As this decade of women's equality closed, and the Equal Rights Amendment was stalled, a new question was raised concerning the draft and possible placement of women in combat roles. This situation could mark the real equality that many women are striving for, and which they may achieve in the 1980's.

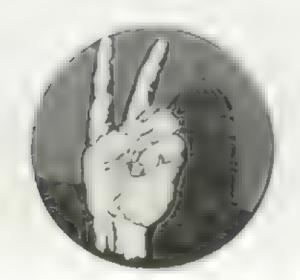

WE ALL LIVE IN HARRISBURG

LADS OF THE SEVENTIES

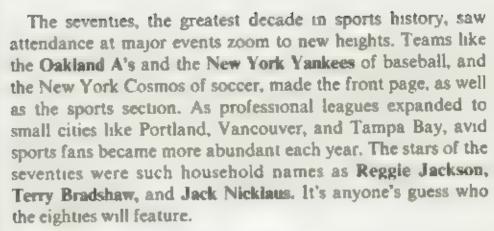

Sometime, far in the future,
We will sit inside of a technicolor tomorrow
And think back to a silver-gray today
Which will then be only a yesterday.
We will look forward to another tomorrow,
Its red-gold sunrise and blue-white noon,
Its paintbox-pink sunset and velvet-black night,
And smile inwardly as we think of the silver-gray today

September's End

Tis almost the autumn of the year most of the trees are still green but that softer slightly faded green like that of the olive trees in Spain and this day the light too was strange and it touched everything with satiny MIVET and memories of vesterday and vestervear There was abroad a wistful reticent air as though the coming fall of the cares were to be for them. ateanne a wrenching alurt But it really is not YOU KNOW without whimper nor regret they give back to the tree to help it through winter some of that are it channeled to them and then bashing or paling or darkening or all they give in to the least breeze or the strongest wind and rejoin the cycle of nature after a last short flights thight to the earth

So have you for year received nurture through this house and more or less successfully assimilated or rejected it Some left with stray gusts but most have lasted to the glory of Fall and are now ready without wh.mper nor regret to rejoin the larger society out there And in that strangely tenacious syndiosis of succeeding generations. you too give us back something a d stillation of your "clan vital" a strong whiff of yourn a renewal that at times goes through this house like a gambol of free light leaves waited on the wings

Dearest Bridget

We often sit and think of you.
And think of how you died.
To think you could not say good-bye.
Before you closed your eyes.
The blow was hard, the shock severe.
We never dreamed your death so need.

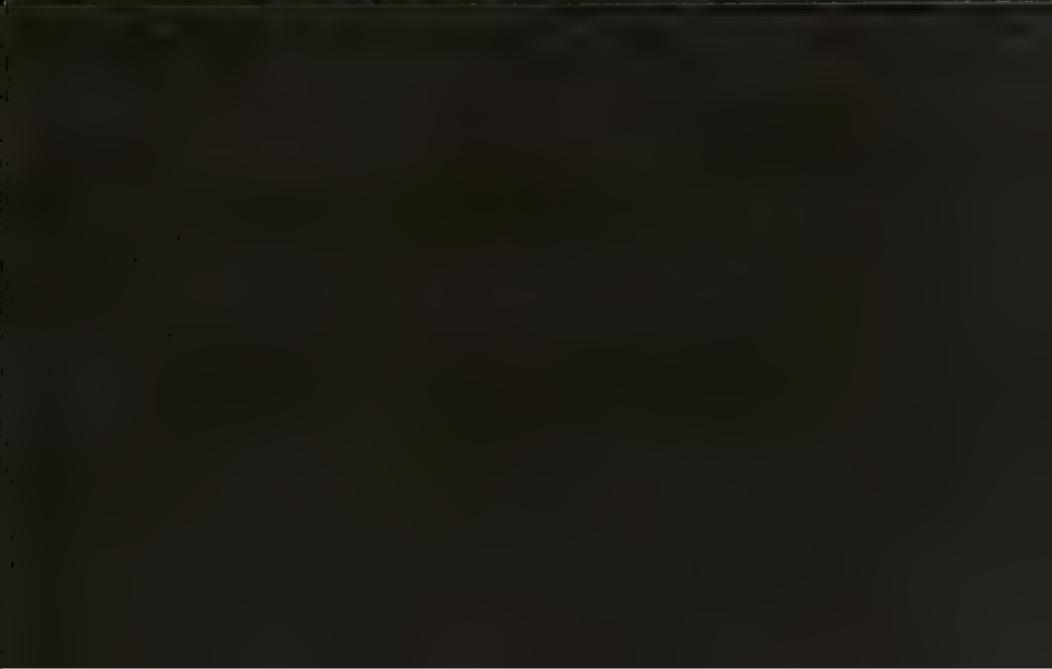

But only those who love can tell.
The pain of perting without ferewell.
God gave as strength to face the blow.
But what it meant to lose you.
No one will ever know.

We love you and miss you.

CONCERT

"PRECIOUS AND FEW"

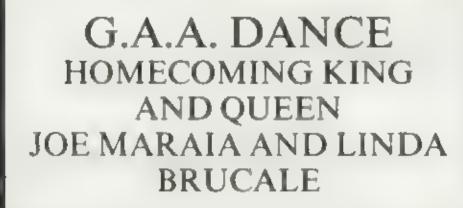

JUNIOR BALL

"YOU'VE GOT A FRIEND"

HAT AND SOCK DAY

It is a curious subject of observation and inquiry, whether love and hate be not the same at bottom. Each, in its utmost development, supposes a high degree of intimacy and heart-knowledge; each renders one individual dependent for the food of his affections and spiritual life upon another; each leaves the passionate lover, or no less passionate hater, forlorn and desolate by withdrawal of his subject. Philosophically considered, therefore, the two passions seem essentially the same, except that one happens to be seen in a celestial radiance, and the other in a dusky and lurid glow...

"If we do not prepare children to become good citizens, if we do not develop their capacities, if we do not enrich their minds with knowledge, imbue their hearts with love of truth and duty and a reverence for all things sacred, then our republic must go down to destruction, as others have gone before us, and mankind must sweep through another vast cycle of sin and suffering before the dawn of a better era can arise upon the world."

To Rob we leave:

A car that has been Midas-sized, dinner at Chef Wang's, and a gumless smile.

To Nikinsky we leave:

Tennis lessons, tweakable cheeks, a cute pair of little feet, and South — God help you.

To All we leave:

Gratitude, affection and happy memories.
